

PageEngine print fulfilment

Making it easy for you and your colleagues to order competitively priced, high quality, on-brand materials.

PAGEENGINE

Why use PageEngine for your print fulfilment?

The same person to help your colleagues - from customising a template all the way through to delivery of an order.

We support your colleagues through the complete design & print process. So they have just one person to contact with any queries - whether customising a template, considering products, ordering prints, or questions about delivery.

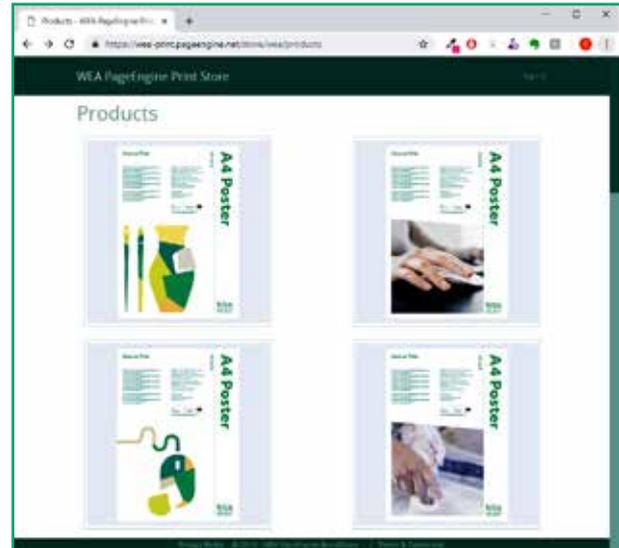

Self-service ordering, freeing up central brand and design teams.

The PageEngine Store makes self-service ordering a breeze.

Your colleagues browse the branded products, learn by reading the product descriptions, get pricing, and order, all self-service, with us on hand to answer queries. Making it easy for them to order what they need, when they need it.

You can make each product available to all users, or only a specific user(s).

Self-service ordering through the Store saves your colleagues time in locating artwork, finding suppliers and making payment. And frees you up from having to provide handholding assistance whenever a colleague has a design & print request.

Users order through an easy to use branded storefront

Clothing, display, merchandise, point of sale, as well as leaflets, posters and stationery.

You can extend your PageEngine Store to become a one-stop-shop for branded products.

For example, you might have a colleague running an event who needs prints of a flyer they customised, but also some pens and a large poster too. You might have these pens produced in bulk in a warehouse, and the poster might be printed on-demand.

By adding these types of products to your Store, you make it easy for your colleagues to purchase all their branded materials in a single order.

We invoice your local services direct, so no need for internal recharging.

Users enter a PO number or cost code (or whatever system your organisation uses) when placing their order. The invoice is then sent direct to the user, or batched for monthly sending to your accounts team - whichever suits you best.

Some generic products are more efficiently printed in bulk. Training packs, pens, folders, for example. To save you the hassle of internal recharging, we can produce & stock an agreed quantity of these, then recoup our production cost as your colleagues order. Which saves you having to pay upfront for large quantities of stock products, whilst still benefiting from organisation-wide bulk discounts.

Reduce your PageEngine software costs.

You'll receive a rebate on all print orders across your organisation, automatically applied to your PageEngine software invoice. Rebates rates are between 1% to 3%, depending on your organisation-wide spend. Some of our clients find their rebate reduces their software invoice to £0.

Enabling external stakeholders to also order your branded materials.

You might have some products that you'd like external stakeholders to order, but don't want them to have access to your PageEngine Store. For instance, supporter fundraising materials, or partner information booklets. That's OK with us, we can process orders submitted through a form, webshop, or by email, both printing on-demand, and picking and packing from stock.

Making it easy for users to order branded materials

Be confident that all branded materials are on-brand, and look professional.

Are your colleagues doing their own thing when it comes to creating materials? Perhaps they open up Word, put together a design with some low-res logos and off-brand fonts. And you don't get to know about it.

When we receive a file for print, we check both that the design is suitable for printing and also that the colours and fonts match your house style. Giving you the reassurance that all branded materials look professional and on-brand.

Our database stores your preferred paper types, so your branded materials are always printed on house-style paper.

Flexibility.

If you want a long-term, organisation-wide, contract, that's great. But we're flexible, and are just as willing to help you with a few specific products and/or on a non-contractual basis.

Review management information reports.

Receive reports listing orders per product, and orders per user. Making it easy for you to see how your colleagues are promoting your brand.
